

The Sandwich

By Jordan, Nick, Victoria & Khoa

This is Chris.

Just about to begin Grade 5, he has been excited for months about day one of the new school year.

Finally the school year has begun!

Chris entered the classroom to notice a new student has joined his class for the new school year.

Welcome back Chris this is Mark, it is his first day today.

During PE class Mark began to torment Chris. This wasn't what Chris thought his first day back would be like.

A few months went by and each day Mark bullied Chris, stealing his lunch and leaving Chris hungry. From one end of the school to the other, Mark would chase Chris never leaving him in peace.

Walking home feeling sad, scared and alone.
Chris wished he never had to go back to school.

Chris told his dad about Mark and how he was bullying him, taking his food everyday.

Mark keeps taking my lunch dad.

Like most nights Chris stayed awake crying in his bedroom. Sitting on his bed fearing the sunrise because he knew that meant he would have to go to school.

The next morning Chris entered the kitchen, where his dad had just thought of an amazing idea.

Thats a great idea!

Maybe Mark is just hungry he might not get lunch packed for him each day. We will pack him some extra lunch that you can give to him.

..... and sure enough inside his lunchbox Chris found an extra sandwich for Mark.

Chris thought he should write a letter to Mark to give to him with the extra lunch he had packed.

CAN YOU HELP
CHRIS WRITE HIS LETTER TO MARK?

I can't wait to surprise Mark with his lunch and the letter

For the first time since the start of the year Chris was excited to go to school.

In the hallway, the bell had gone and all the students had ran off to class. Chris decided this was the moment to give Mark his surprise.

In class Mark read the letter as Chris watched anxiously, worrying about what Mark might think.

Mark was very thankful for the food and the letter. He no longer needed to bully Chris for his lunch as the boys now shared lunch together everyday. The two boys became the best of friends and now Chris can be excited for school again.

The End.
